PERE SARD

Far from the monumental avenues of the city center, a web of small roads interconnect.

They compose sub-neighbourhoods: micro-cosmos

The streets are covered with chairs.

It is just one of many other chair realities:
Tbilisi is a city of chair spots: wherever there is a sunny corner or a shady wall: chairs to rest.

Who walks have the right to sit down, to admire the slowness with which life carries on in a city that appear frenetic, that works non stop, but that adores to sit down.

Tbilisi is the city of chairs: an ode to resting.
